Update on the fencing issue of the newly acquired land: The Park County Commissioners sent a letter to cease and desist development of the new land until further notice. Commissioner Lloyd Thiel, the club liaison with the county, shared concerns over the high ridge road and southern boundary of the range. The Bureau of Reclamation, BLM, Park County, and Cody Shooting Complex are all included in the discussions.

Commissioner Thiel stated that the group of hikers and cyclists wanted full access to the high ridge road. President Otis Smith stated that allowing that would put them in danger from possible projectiles from the proposed development of the newly acquired land. Commissioner Thiel stated that Park County promised BLM access through there. Park County will agree to re-survey the southern boundary through an independent survey company and compare the results to the map that what was provided to the range through BLM.

After a time of discussion, the board agreed to wait for the official survey by Park County Commissioners before moving forward to settle the dispute.

Cody Shooting Complex board members are invited to an upcoming commissioners' meeting and the county is working to solve the issue. Commissioner Thiel requested that the letter President Otis Smith sent to the newspaper to be rescinded before it is published on Thursday. President Otis Smith agreed to try to shut it down before the it comes out in the paper.

President Otis Smith agreed to remove two signs stating "Public Property. Keep Out." Along the range fence line.

As there was no further business, President Otis Smith called for an adjournment. The meeting adjourned at 18:50.

Respectfully submitted,

Otis Smith
